Commenting on the figures, Nicolas Hieronimus, CEO of L'Oréal, said:

"In a beauty market that is more dynamic than ever, L'Oréal delivered a remarkable performance and further strengthened its global leadership in the first half. Growth was broad-based across all Divisions, Regions, categories, and channels, once again vindicating our balanced, multi-polar model. Growth continued to be driven by the dual cylinders of volume and value – testament to the success of our innovations and the desirability of our brands. In keeping with our virtuous circle, we improved our profitability, all while significantly increasing investment in our brands. At the same time, in line with our dual ambition of economic and corporate performance, we continued to invest in the transition towards a more sustainable operating model that will ensure long-term value creation. In an economic context that is still uncertain, we remain ambitious for the future, optimistic about the outlook for the beauty market, and confident in our ability to keep outperforming the market and achieve in 2023 another year of growth in sales and profits.”

Moreover, the Board of Directors has decided, under the authorisation voted by the Annual General Meeting of 21 April 2023, to set up a share buyback programme during the second half of 2023 amounting to a maximum of 500 million euros and with a maximum number of shares to be acquired of 2 million. The shares thus repurchased are intended to be cancelled³.

Summary by Division

PROFESSIONAL PRODUCTS

In the first half of the year, the Professional Products Division reported continued growth of +7.6% like-for-like and +6.9% reported.

The Division outperformed the market with remarkable growth in mainland China and India, as well as the United Kingdom. It continued to grow in all distribution channels: in salons, in its SalonCentric network (in North America), in e-commerce and in the selective channel.

Growth in the dynamic haircare market was driven by Kérastase, with an excellent start for the Symbiose anti-dandruff range, and by L'Oréal Professionnel, with the success of Metal Detox. The Division performed well in hair colour, thanks to its iconic lines Shades EQ by Redken and Inoa by L'Oréal Professionnel. As the industry leader, the Division continued to pursue the rollout of its “Hairstylists for the Future” programme, supporting all partner hairstylists in their green transition.

CONSUMER PRODUCTS

The Consumer Products Division achieved its best half-year on record, growing +15.0% like-for-like and +13.1% reported.

Driven by both volume and value, the Division increased its sales by around one billion euros to achieve this record performance. The Division significantly outperformed the dynamic mass market; of particular note were the exceptional performances in Europe and in the high-potential emerging markets of Mexico, Brazil, and India.

Each of the large brands grew in double-digits. All four categories advanced strongly, powered by flawless execution, best-in-class retailer partnerships, and disruptive innovations. Makeup was the most dynamic, boosted by the newly launched Falsies Surreal Mascara by Maybelline New York, Telescopic Lift Mascara by L'Oréal Paris and Fat Oil Gloss by NYX Professional Makeup. Haircare benefitted from the Division's premiumisation strategy, especially with the highly successful launch of Elvive Bond Repair. In hair colour, Good by Garnier was off to a very promising start. Skincare recorded double digit growth thanks to L'Oréal Paris' new Revitalift Clinical Vitamin C SPF50+ fluid and Garnier's new AHA BHA anti-acne line.

LUXE

L'Oréal Luxe has accelerated quarter after quarter, posting first-half growth of +7.6% like-for-like and +6.1% reported.

L'Oréal Luxe reported strong growth in the first six months, driven by double-digit increases in Europe, North America and emerging markets. In mainland China, L'Oréal Luxe saw a remarkable recovery during the second quarter with double-digit growth in sales and achieved another record market share.

The Division outperformed the luxury fragrance market, with double-digit growth across all Regions, spurred by standout performances from couture brands including Yves Saint Laurent, Prada and Valentino. In skincare, L'Oréal Luxe continued to make progress thanks to the spectacular success of Helena Rubinstein and the recovery of Lancôme in North America, along with the success of Takami in Japan and more recently in mainland China. Makeup also grew, buoyed by the success of Yves Saint Laurent and encouraging performances from specialist brands Urban Decay and Shu Uemura. The Aēsop brand will be integrated in the second half once the necessary regulatory approvals have been obtained.

DERMATOLOGICAL BEAUTY⁶

The Dermatological Beauty Division reported outstanding growth of +29.0% like-for-like and +29.5% reported.

In the first half, the Division delivered another remarkable performance, growing well ahead of the highly dynamic dermocosmetics market with a strong contribution from volume and value. This was driven by its portfolio of highly complementary brands – coupled with the continued pursuit of medical and prescription leadership. The Division posted outstanding progress in all regions with particularly impressive performances in emerging markets and Europe; in mainland China, where the market continued to gradually recover, it outperformed significantly.

All global brands advanced in double digits: La Roche-Posay, the Division's number one growth contributor maintained its strong momentum, driven by Effaclar, Cicaplast and UVMune 400. CeraVe remained extremely dynamic in North America and accelerated strongly in the rest of the world. Vichy was spurred by the success of Dercos and solid momentum in suncare. SkinCeuticals continued to progress and the newly acquired SkinBetter Science was off to a very promising start.

Summary by Region

EUROPE

Europe posted outstanding growth of +18.2% like-for-like and +16.6% reported.

L'Oréal outperformed a dynamic beauty market, with remarkable performances in key countries such as the Germany-Austria-Switzerland cluster, France, and the United Kingdom, as well as in dynamic countries like Poland, Turkey and the Nordics. In e-commerce, growth accelerated significantly in the second quarter. Growth was fuelled by a sound contribution from value and an increase in volume, demonstrating the attractiveness of L'Oréal's brand portfolio among European consumers.

In the Consumer Products Division, momentum was outstanding for all major brands and in all categories, led by makeup and skincare. The Dermatological Beauty Division continued to post very strong growth and significantly outperformed the market, driven by La Roche-Posay and CeraVe, both of which continued to achieve spectacular performances. L'Oréal Luxe strengthened its leadership in fragrances, the largest segment in the European selective beauty market, driven by the ongoing success of Paradoxe by Prada and Libre by Yves Saint Laurent. The Professional Products Division continued to make gains in the strategic premium haircare segment.

NORTH AMERICA

In the first six months, growth in North America amounted to +13.0% like-for-like and +14.7% reported.

Growth was broad-based across all the Divisions and driven by a strong contribution from both price and mix.

In the US, the Consumer Products Division advanced in double digits, outperforming the market in haircare and skincare; momentum remained strong in makeup, led by innovations across all key brands.

L'Oréal Luxe continued to outperform the market in fragrances, driven by couture brands including Valentino and Prada; in makeup, Yves Saint Laurent and Armani grew in double digits, driven by recent launches. Growth in e-commerce remained dynamic with strong momentum on Amazon, where the introduction of new brands, including Lancôme, is redefining luxury beauty on the platform.

The Professional Products Division outpaced the market, notably in haircare, driven by the ongoing success of Redken and Kérastase.

L'Oréal Dermatological Beauty maintained its tremendous growth, significantly outperforming the market, thanks to the continued success of CeraVe and the outstanding momentum of La Roche-Posay, the Division's fastest growing brand.

NORTH ASIA

North Asia grew +3.9% like-for-like and +0.6% reported.

The beauty market in mainland China continued its progressive recovery in the second quarter, driven by a strong rebound in both offline and online channels. Against that backdrop, L'Oréal significantly outperformed the market and achieved strong growth across all channels and Divisions during this period. This was fuelled by the introduction of new brands like Valentino, Prada and Takami; a well-filled innovation pipeline; as well as the gradual expansion into new cities. During the 6.18 shopping festival, eight of the Group's brands across all four Divisions were in the Top-20; L'Oréal Paris and Lancôme ranked first and second, respectively, cumulative across all platforms and categories.

By category, the Region's growth in the first half was driven by haircare, notably Kérastase and L'Oréal Professionnel; skincare, including Helena Rubinstein, SkinCeuticals and Takami; and fragrance with Maison Margiela and the Prada and Valentino launches. After a challenging start to the year, makeup recovered significantly in the second quarter, driven by both mass and selective brands.

Growth remained strong in Hong Kong SAR, which benefited from the pick-up in travel from mainland China. In Japan, L'Oréal outperformed the market thanks to significant momentum in Consumer Products, notably with Maybelline New York, and L'Oréal Luxe, with standout performances for Takami and Shu Uemura.

The Travel Retail business in the Region was affected by the base effect of last year's anticipated invoicing⁷. In addition, sell-out was adversely impacted by Travel Retail operators' wide-ranging refocus on a model with the individual traveller at its core.

SAPMENA–SSA⁸

SAPMENA-SSA achieved outstanding growth of +23.6% like-for-like and +17.4% reported.

SAPMENA continued to deliver outstanding double-digit growth in all categories and Divisions, making gains in both volume and value. By category, skincare was the main driver, fuelled by the expansion of CeraVe and strong growth in La Roche-Posay suncare; makeup was the fastest-growing category due to the rebound of Maybelline New York; fragrances recorded another strong and broad-based performance. By Region, growth was well-balanced between Pacific, Southeast Asia, South Asia and Middle East & North Africa. In the Pacific region, growth was outstanding, especially in the drug store channel; in India, growth was driven by mass and professional hair colour and haircare. In Southeast Asia, L'Oréal recorded strong sales and outperformed in Thailand, Malaysia and Singapore, while the Consumer Products Division in Vietnam benefited from the expansion of e-commerce. The Gulf States recorded excellent growth over the religious holidays.

In Sub-Saharan Africa (SSA), all countries saw double-digit growth, with particularly strong momentum in South Africa and Kenya.

LATIN AMERICA

Latin America achieved outstanding growth of +23.6% like-for-like and +28.9% reported.

All countries continued to grow in double digits, with Brazil and Mexico being the top contributors. E-commerce sales continued to display fast growth.

Makeup spearheaded double-digit growth across all categories, with the stellar success of Maybelline New York innovations. In skincare, growth was driven by the continued success of La Roche-Posay and CeraVe, as well as L'Oréal Paris and Garnier.
